

Melbourne Private Hospital (MPH) is co-located with a number of health services and research institutes on the Parkville precinct in the inner city of Melbourne. We strongly recommended that patients and visitors consider using public transport, taxis or ride share services wherever possible. There is very limited car parking available on-site or in the surrounding streets.

You will require a 'myki' to travel on trains, trams and buses in Melbourne. You can find the nearest place to buy a myki or buy a myki online at www.ptv.vic.gov.au/tickets/myki/

Trams – Nos. 19, 58 and 59

- The No. 19 (North Coburg – route info here) tram travels along Elizabeth Street from Flinders Street Station in the CBD – it stops directly outside MPH in Royal Parade at Tram stop 10 located at the corner of Royal Parade and Grattan Street.
- The No. 58 (West Coburg – route info here) tram travels along William Street in the CBD and then up Flemington Road – it is recommended that you alight at Tram Stop No. 14 opposite the Royal Women's Hospital.
- The No. 59 (Airport West – route info here) tram travels along Elizabeth Street from Flinders Street Station and up Flemington Road – it is recommended that you alight at Tram Stop No. 14 opposite the Royal Women's Hospital, which joins the Royal Melbourne Hospital.

Train

- You may travel to Melbourne Central station then catch a connecting No. 19 or No. 59 tram. You may also travel to North Melbourne station then catch a connecting No. 401 bus.
- Alternatively, you may travel to Flagstaff station then catch the connecting No. 58 tram as described above.
- Please note, opening hours are limited on the weekend at Flagstaff station. Parkville station adjacent to Melbourne Private Hospital is scheduled to open in 2025 forming the Sunbury to Cranbourne/Pakenham line.
